Welcome Message Conference President

I am deeply honoured to welcome all to this International Conference & Expo on Agriculture & Veterinary Sciences: Research and Technology. It seems to me that the conference is being held at a critical moment in the coming together of various challenges that our small planet is facing. We all have different agendas but I am sure that if we were all to be asked which are the 10 key challenges the world is now facing, we would include growing political tensions across the world, growing isolationism among the major players in the world, growing inequality, faster armaments race. All of us are being caught in these nets, with all the contradictions between politics and economics, between the priorities of the rich and the poor, the demands of the major world exporters and the growing resistance by those at the bottom of the pyramid.

- Dr. Benny Dembitzer

Managing Director, Grassrootsafrica, UK.
